

Population Covariance

Spatial pattern of conditional genetic covariance is determined by both neutral and adaptive processes.

- Majority of genome reflects neutral history
- Small fraction represent adaptive history.

Selection & Covariance

The operation of selection at a particular genomic location will change the topology of inter-population covariance.

